“Get an opportunity to participate in an internship program in Japan”

Overview

Ministry of Economy, Trade and Industry of Japan will hold a coding contest for students who are learning Information Technology (IT) or related fields in Latin America.

10~20 students who achieved excellent result in the contest will be able to participate in an internship program at Japanese companies' head offices or their offices abroad.

Screening Process

- METI will pick up the top 30~40 students from the coding contest based on their coding skill and speed.
- METI will kindly request CV and two recommendation letters from the students above, for Japanese companies' reference.
- The students will receive the list of Japanese companies and will be able to make a request to a Japanese company which they want to go to.
- Japanese companies will interview students to match up with.
- Through this screening process, METI finalises the top 10-20 students to proceed to the internship programme.
